KATE ROWE AUSTRALIAN TOUR 2009

She's quirky, she's charming, and she's on the move. Blue Mountains songwriter Kate Rowe is hitting the road and will be performing across Australia in 2009.

Kate Rowe writes funny, thoughtful storysongs with a twist in the tail. A passionate fan of fantasy and science fiction, she brings unusual subjects to life: from a dysfunctional family of pirates, to the peculiar Catacombs of Paris; from outerspace adventures to a humorous love song in praise of coffee.

Alternately sweet and dark, with a wry sense of humour, Kate is a refreshing and thoroughly entertaining performer.

Kate's recent performances include Blue Mountains Music Festival (NSW) in 2007 and 2008, Cygnet Festival (TAS) and Greenfest (QLD) in 2008 and two sellout shows at the Clarendon in Katoomba NSW.

Kate will be supported throughout her tour by Ryan Morrison, the youngest and by far the sweetest member of the infamous Spooky Men's Chorale. With a vocal style reminiscent of Jeff Buckley or Ray LaMontagne, Ryan's quiet, poignant songs weave a spell of peace and happiness around his listeners.

"To be part of a Kate Rowe live performance is to be charmed by her witty lyrics, warmed by her smile and her delicate full voice, and sent off into the night with happiness levels fully replenished."
